EDITORIAL BY THE GOVERNOR

Watonga Republican Continues the Controversy.

FIRES SOME HOT SHOTS

Nobody's Business Who Wrote the Said Article.

Guthrie O. T., Sept. 5.-Under the caption of "Who Wrote It? Who Are the "Fellows?" " an editorial appears in the Watouga Republican of this week commenting on the recent editorial which stirred up the politicians. The editorial says "it is nobody's business who writes the articles that appear in this paper" and then takes "hot shots" at the "fellows" who, it is alleged, complained because of the appointment of Fred L. Wenner. The editorial in full is as follows:

Some time ago this paper contained an article relative to criticisms from a certain source on the appointment of Winner. Since the publication of that article lerable comment has been indulged in as to who wrote it. For eleven years the Watonga Republican has been runming in Blaine county and during that say upon any public matter, without asking the advice or consent of anyone as body's business who writes the articles that appear in this paper. It will be observed that no retraction is ever made. Whoever wrote that article, it goes just the same. Now then, how about it? Yet Its Tonnage Is That of an Older Road.

Guthrie, O. T., Sept. 5 .- The latest acquisition in railroads to enter Guthrie and Enid,-the Denver, Enid and Guif ratirond- is experiencing a large amount of business along its fifty-three miles of track. The new road was completed only a few months ago, yet the amount of business that has come to the road has far exceeded the most sanguine expectations of its promoters. The country through which it passes abounds in products which have long made Oklahoma Hiawatha, Kan.; he said that they had famous. Elevators have been established at every town along the new line. bedoux was bound over without bond to proving an incentive to the farmers and grain buyers to market their products at these points and encouraging them to thrift and enterprise.

Fairmount a town of only a few months age has two elevators which ship several car loads every week to northern and eastern markets. Douglas has two good elevators; Marshall three, and Crescent City three, Corwin, the latest town estblished along the "Alfaifa" Route" has an elevator also affording the farmers a station where the highest price for wheat is paid. Wheat however, is not the only product marketed at Crescent during the season, several car loads of Elberta peaches were shipped to the eastern markets. It is said that before the Denver. Enid and Gulf entered this part of Oklahoma, the farmers. unable to bring the peaches to the markets, allowed the peaches to rot in the orchards, little if any attempts made to market them. The freight business, too, has surprised the officials of the Denver, Enid and Gulf. Merchants from the larger cities are now able to place their good to the buyers along the new road considerably in advance of former times, and causing no little increase in trade.
